RIEL, THE MANITOBA REBEL.

Mr. Robert Lockhart, a resident of San Francisco, some years since, in a letter to a Belfast paper, dated Toronto, April 17, 1874, gave some interesting information concerning the Manitoba rebel, Louis Riel, which is here reproduced in full:

I would regard this brief summary of the opening proceedings (of the Dominion Parliament) as altogether incomplete without some reference to the now notorious Louis Riel, who has been elected to represent the Provencher District of Manitoba in the Dominion Parliament, and against whom a bill has been found for the murder of Thomas Scott, the loyalist, in Mar., 1870. The details of this butchery are as horrible as any recorded in the annals of crime. Some of your readers may have heard of the Red River rebellion, which broke out in the year 1869. The rebels formed a provisional government (something after the style of the Paris Communists), and elected Louis Riel as President. As part of their proceedings, they made prisoners of a large number of loyalists, among them their leader, Thomas Scott. The prisoners were very harshly treated, Scott more so than any of the rest, as Riel nourished a particular hatred against him. The following is an abridged account of the end of this horrible tragedy: Scott received a sham trial before a tribunal of war, he not being present, but being simply brought forward to hear the sentence of death delivered against him, and the execution took place March 4, 1870.

A HORRIBLE EXECUTION.

Six soldiers were chosen to shoot him. One of the six declared openly that he would not shoot at Scott, and in fact took off the cap before the word of command, "Present!" was given. Of the five balls remaining only two hit the victim, one on the right shoulder, the other on the upper part of the chest above the heart. These two wounds were not sufficient, it appears, to cause death—at least instant death—and one Guilmotte stepped forward and discharged the contents of a pistol close to Scott's head, while he was lying on the ground. The ball, however, took a wrong direction, going into the upper part of the right cheek and coming out somewhere about the cartilage of the nose. Scott was not yet dead, but that did not prevent his butchers from placing him, alive and still speaking, in a kind of coffin made of four rough boards, which was nailed up and placed in the southeast bastion. This occurred at 12:30, and between the hours of 5 and 6 in the evening the unfortunate Scott was heard speaking from underneath the lid of the coffin. He was understood to say "My God! My God!" and "For God's sake take me out of here or kill me." What a long and horrible agony, and what a ferocious cruelty on the part of his butchers! Toward 11 o'clock—that is, after ten and a half hours' cruel torture, a person, whose name is at present withheld, went into the bastion and gave him the finishing stroke with a butcher-knife, after which the assassin exclaimed, "The ——— shall not speak any more. He is dead this time." For three nights a watch was kept over the remains, and on the fourth the corpse was taken to the Red River and thrown in, a large stone having been previously tied to it. And so the body of Thos. Scott sank to rise no more. Such is the story of Scott's death, which more resembles some of the horrid fancies of Edgar Allan Poe than anything one would expect to be enacted in a civilized country.

RIEL IN PARLIAMENT.

These particulars were only published a day or two ago, and have served to increase the excitement already existed. The rebellion has since been crushed, but Riel has been elected as member for that district; and although, as already stated, a true bill has been found against him, and the warrant for his arrest is in the hands of the proper officers, still Riel has so far baffled justice. Previous to the opening of Parliament it was a subject of general conversation as to what course Riel would pursue—would he take his seat, and run the risk of being arrested on the charge of murder? or would he keep skulking through the country as he had previously done, and evade all efforts to capture him? On these subjects the public mind was far more exercised than on the work of the session just commenced. Amid all this talk, however, in steps Louis Riel to the office of Mr. Patrick, chief clerk of the House, to whom he bowed politely, and without the slightest hesitation or confusion took the book in his hand, was sworn in due form, and signed his name on the parliamentary roll. He then bowed again, walked quickly out of the room and went on his way, no doubt rejoicing. That such a proceeding should be allowed to take place in broad daylight and with every one on the qui vive, is not easily to be credited, yet several parties swore to the handwriting, which placed it beyond doubt that Riel had been sworn in. If the excitement was great before this occurrence it increased tenfold afterward, and all sorts of rumors were in circulation in regard to where Riel was secreted and also as to what action the Government would take in the case. People flocked from all parts of the country to the capital, and the House was nightly besieged by an excited throng eager to see if Riel would appear. It is stated that a number of those who obtained seats in the gallery were armed with revolvers. Be that as it may, there can be no doubt that if the mob could have got the chance, lynch law would soon have put an end to Riel's inglorious career. I should state that Riel and his followers are known as the "half-breeds," being a mixture of the French and Indian races. The excitement has in no way abated, but Parliament has resolved to rid itself of the disgrace and of Riel at the same time. On the evening before last Mr. Bowell brought forward a motion for the expulsion of Riel. A long debate followed, and was continued at last night's sitting, in the course of which the Sadler case, and the case of O'Donovan Rossa in the Imperial Parliament, were referred to as establishing a precedent for them to follow. Ultimately the House decided in favor of the motion by a majority of 56—yeas 125, nays 68. Thus, for the moment, a question of difficulty has been disposed of so far as Parliament is concerned.

The Fast Trotting Stallion

VENTURE

RECORD, 2:27 1/4.

Having purchased this celebrated Stallion from MR. JAMES CAMPBELL, I hereby notify the public that he will stand the present season at my headquarters, corner of Punchbowl and Queen Streets (Captain Clancy's). Terms for the season, $50; to insure, $100.

Description.

Venture is a rich chestnut color, 16 hands high, and weighs about 1,100 lbs. In structure he is the picture of great muscular power, and in appearance, temperament and disposition, he is faultless. Full of fire and gentleness, he is without speck or blemish. As a stock horse he is having extraordinary success; his numerous progeny, both in California and in this country, attest this fact, several of them being able to trot low down, and one of his daughters (Venus) can trot in 2:25. Venus is also the dam of Transit, which is said to be the most promising two-year-old in California. He trotted a mile last season, as a yearling, in 2:45.

Pedigree.

Venture, chestnut horse, foaled in 1863, bred by Henry Williamson, Esq., Oakland, California; by Belmont, he by American boy, he by Seagull, he by Imported Expedition.

1st dam, Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr.
2nd dam, by Kenner's Gray Medec.
3rd dam, Imported Lady Mostyn, by Teniers.
4th dam, Invalide, by Wisker.
5th dam, Helen, by Hambletonian.
6th dam, Susan, by Overton.
7th dam, Drowey, by Drone.
8th dam, by Old England.
9th dam, by Cullen Arabian.
10th dam, Miss Cade, by Cade.
11th dam, Miss Makeless, son of Greyhound.
Belmont, by American Boy.
1st dam, Imported Trunella, by Comus.

2nd dam, by Partisan.
3rd dam, Pawa, by Trumpator.
4th dam, Trunella, by Highflyer.
5th dam, Promise, by Snap.
6th dam, Julia, by Blank.
7th dam, Spectator's dam, by Partner.
8th dam, Bonny Lass, by Bay Bolton.
9th dam, by Darley's Arabian.
10th dam, by Ryerly Turk.
11th dam, by Taffolet Barb.
12th dam, by Fane's White Turk.
13th dam, Natural Barb Mare.

In offering the services of this horse to the public I make one claim for him, which is that he is the highest bred trotting stallion in the world, living or dead, and in support of this claim I am willing to submit it to any authority that can be obtained, and if he is not, then I will forfeit all my claims to horse knowledge. It will be seen that his pedigree represents a union of the purest blood of the English and American thoroughbred racer, one of his grand dams, as also one of his great grand dams, being imported from England to the United States. When Venture was on the turf, about eight years ago, he was at that time the sensational horse of the Pacific Coast, and the sporting papers in the East, that were always so much opposed to running blood in the trotter, commenced picking away at his pedigree, trying to find a cold cross in it, at the same time declaring that it was simply impossible for a strictly thoroughbred horse to trot as fast as he was then trotting; but at last they had to give it up, and admitted the fact that he was a strictly thoroughbred horse, but declared him a phenomenon, and were unable to account for his great speed at the trotting gait. But the fame of his sire, old Belmont, is almost world-wide, and it is a well-known fact his blood nicked better with the trotting families than that of any other thoroughbred horse ever known, as, in addition to Venture, two other thoroughbred sons of his, Capt. Webster and Owen Dale, were said to have possessed great speed at the trot. Besides these, he sired the dams of Belle Echo, 2:20; Flora Shepherd, 2:30; Monarch, 2:28; Nelly Patchen, 2:27 1/4; Rustle, 2:30; which is showing that a great many of the best trotting bred horses cannot equal. Mr. Patrick Farrell, who is one of the most experienced drivers on the Pacific Coast, told me the last time that I saw him, that Venture was the fastest trotter that he ever pulled a line over, and that if his temper had not been soured in his youth by bad handling, he believed that he would have equaled, if not surpassed, all the records ever made, and that he could show a two-minute gait with him to a wagon, but in company he would become wild, on account of his hot blood, and was often beaten by horses that could hardly run as fast as he could trot. His record of 2:27 1/4 which was no measure of his speed, was made at the Oakland track in 1877, in a race which he won, beating Alexander, Gus, General Reno and Billy Hayward, this being his last public performance.

It is thought by some people that an aged horse is not as good a producer as a young one, but no greater mistake could possibly be made. Indeed, the opposite is claimed by many large breeders, and instances are so numerous of horses siring their best foals at an advanced age that the above theory has long ago been exploded. Imported Diomed was twenty-seven years old when he sired Sir Archy, his best son; Bonnie Scotland, who died only a few years ago, sired Luke Blackburn and George Kinney, by far the best of his get, after he was twenty-five; imported Leamington sired Troquois, his best son, the last year that he lived, at twenty-five. Among trotters may be mentioned Volunteer, the sire of St. Julien, who is thirty-one years old this spring, and is said to be as lively and vigorous as he ever was, and his young foals as promising as any that he ever got. Old Hamiltonian died in March, 1876, aged twenty-seven years, but sired two foals the last days of his life, and one of them, called Hamiltonian's last, made a trotting record of 2:25 the past season, and the other one is said to be equally as fast.

With these facts before us, it is plain that the age of a horse has nothing to do with his success as a sire. I think myself that there is a great deal in the condition that a horse is kept, for an animal that is well-fed and cared for, with plenty of exercise, will beget better foals than one that is turned loose and never stabled or fed grain.

Venture is twenty-two years old this spring, and with the care that I intend to give him, I expect him to sire better foals than he ever has before. He is a remarkably sure breeder. Mr. Campbell assures me that he has never bred a mare to him yet that did not produce a foal, and his many beautiful colts, now on Mr. C's ranch, are worth a long journey to see; and now as he is to be kept so convenient to the general public, no one owning a good mare should be so blind to their own interest as to neglect the opportunity of obtaining his blood while they have the chance.

For any additional particulars apply at Punchbowl and Queen streets.
